Genesis of Organisation

PROJECT SWARAJYA is a non-profit making, non-party, pluralistic and open-ended platform that underlines the need for debate, discussion and dialogue among the concerned key players to tackle the complex human rights issues that the society is confronted with. It came into existence in mid-1988 in the midst of a country-wide movement for making Right to Work a fundamental right in the Constitution of India. Besides this campaign it also then took up the particular demand of legislating and implementing Employment Guarantee Act for rural unskilled labour in Orissa along Maharastra lines. Orissa being a predominantly rural-tribal society, the women in villages who among others have been marginalized due to one-sided development programmes needed most of all guarantee of job round the year by the State a thing which has been experimented since mid-70s in Maharastra. Fortunately enough, after a lapse of a decade's the Common Minimum Programme of the present UPA Government at the Centre has implemented the National Employment Guarantee Act (MNREGA) for the whole country.

Vision

As the name Swarajya suggests, the Organisation like many other thinkers and reformers of the past and as well of the present, envisages the emergence of an equitable, harmonious and ethical society where each and every individual shall be able to live on the principle, 'From each according to his capacity, to each according to his need' in inter-dependence with the rest of the society.

Mission

To empower the women and other marginalized and weaker sections of the society such as Scheduled Castes, Scheduled tribes, Other Backward classes, minorities, disabled and destitute for their effective participation in the making and implementation of policies and programmes with gender approach, meant for their sustainable development, and also to work simultaneously for strengthening of the existing platforms and institutions like PRIs and SHGs which directly concern their day-to-day life.

Area of operation

The Organisation deals with issues of national to local importance. However its activities are concentrated in the State of Orissa. And again its organizational infrastructure is mainly confined to such districts of State as Cuttack, Kendrapara, Jajpur and Jagatsinghpur.
